Dear Dr. Khan,

I hope this email finds you well.

I'm writing regarding our recent paper, 'Predicting Extreme Weather Events: A Novel Approach,' published in the Urban Planning Journal. I've just received some unexpected, but crucial, feedback from a pre-submission review by one of the Chemical Innovation Fund (CIF) liaisons. They specifically highlighted a few points related to our methodology, emphasizing the implications for the new $2M grant focusing on predicting extreme weather events.

I've incorporated these comments and made the necessary adjustments in the attached 'manuscript_updates.docx'. We need your immediate review and approval on these changes. The CIF liaison is pushing for a final confirmation by end of day today, as they want to ensure full alignment before the next phase of the grant disbursement process.

Please review it as soon as possible and let me know if you have any concerns. I'll be available to discuss if needed.

Best regards,

Dr. Grace Gupta
