Hi William,

Hope you're having a productive week, especially with the new NIH grant work on advanced composites – fantastic news!

I'm writing about our 'Advanced Composites: A Novel Approach' paper for the International Literature Festival Review. I just received some very last-minute, but critical, feedback from the editorial team that requires immediate attention. It seems there was a misunderstanding on a few key points regarding the data interpretation and flow, which need to be clarified before the final proofing stage.

I've gone through and made the necessary revisions as quickly as possible, but I need your eyes on them right away to ensure we're both aligned and that the changes accurately reflect our intentions. This needs to be turned around within the next few hours.

Please find the updated manuscript attached as "manuscript_updates.docx". Could you review the highlighted sections and let me know your thoughts/approval ASAP? The deadline is extremely tight for these final adjustments.

Let me know if you have any questions once you've had a look.

Best,

Maria
