Hi Noah,

Hope you're well and that preparations for the World Water Congress are going smoothly. I know you must be incredibly busy with your new $2M Space Exploration Grant and all the upcoming presentations.

I'm writing to you with a rather urgent request regarding our paper, 'Public Health Policy: A Novel Approach', published in Cultural Anthropology Review. I've just been contacted by the editorial team. They are putting together a special "Editor's Choice" collection and have asked for a few minor formatting adjustments and a brief updated author's note for our piece to be included. The deadline for submission is incredibly tight – end of day tomorrow!

I've gone ahead and made the necessary tweaks, highlighting them for your convenience, and compiled everything into the attached document, "manuscript_updates.docx". Could you please review it as soon as possible to ensure everything looks correct from your end? It's crucial we get this back to them quickly to avoid missing this excellent opportunity to gain more visibility for our work.

Please let me know if you can take a look within the next few hours.

Best,
Tom
